Brief bio – Dr. Eric Dunker

Dr. Eric Dunker currently serves as the Associate Vice President and Dean of Business, Technology, and Workforce Partnerships at Arapahoe Community College (ACC) in Colorado and is an Aspen Institute Fellow in the 2022 Rising Community College President Fellowship. In his current position, he leads ACC's extended campuses, serves as an Academic Dean in Technology and Business, and champions ACC's efforts in industry and community engagement.

Dunker is a national leader in community college advancement and workforce development efforts. Under his leadership, ACC has cultivated $11.3 million in new private donations and recently secured a $2 million Sync Up Colorado challenge program that will bridge high school to health careers.

Additionally, he has led over $6.5 million in new public grants and appropriations, co-created innovative apprenticeships in health care, technology, and business, and co-created responsive career-ready programs for displaced workers in the Denver-south region during the COVID-19 pandemic. Dunker's work received statewide recognition at the Colorado Apprenticeship Awards as he was named the 2021 Colorado Apprentice Champion. He was recently appointed by Colorado's governor to the state apprenticeship council.

He prioritizes local community and industry engagement through active and visible leadership evidenced by his current service on the Colorado State Youth Council board, the Arapahoe/Douglas Workforce board, and the Colorado State University County extension board. Dunker co-led the design of the innovative $40 million Sturm Collaboration Campus that opened in 2019 in the fast-growing community of Castle Rock, Colorado where he leads campus strategy and operations. The Sturm Collaboration Campus, recipient of the Economic Development Partnership of the Year in Colorado award, is a partnership between K-12, Arapahoe Community College, Colorado State University, the Arapahoe/Douglas Workforce Center, and local industry and is a national model for community college modernization.

Dunker has over 17 years of experience in higher education. Prior to ACC, he served as the Coastal Regional Director for Oregon State University Extension. He led six rural county extension offices and helped implement new strategic initiatives for engagement and rural economic development such as co-creating the first outdoor recreation and tourism faculty positions on the Oregon coast. Prior to OSU, Dunker worked in a variety of roles for nine years at MSU Denver, which is a Hispanic Serving Institution in downtown Denver. He graduated from Bucknell University with his BSBA in Business, Colorado State University with an MS in Student Affairs in Higher Education, and the University of Denver with a PhD in Curriculum and Instruction.

He and Katie, his wife of 16 years and a Michigan native, have three active children. They love traveling, spending time with family, and participating in outdoor activities – especially at their family's lake home in central Minnesota.
